

About Our Founders and the MBV Story

Imagine it's four in the morning. The sun has yet to rise. The majority of the world is sleeping comfortably in their beds as darkness still reigns supreme. But not you. You're awake. You and a close friend. Both beyond exhausted, going on zero hours of sleep, putting in the necessary time and effort to make your dreams become reality.

This is the story of James Thompson and Jesse Webb. Two budding entrepreneurs working tirelessly through the night, mixing, bottling and even hand delivering their signature vape juice to some of the company's first love-struck customers.

For James and Jesse, it all started in a smoke-filled casino in 2010. James Thompson, a restless card dealer and aspiring entrepreneur was working a high-stakes poker tournament when a man approached his table puffing on an electronic cigarette, better known today as an e-cigarette. Having smoked for nearly half his life and desiring to raise his three children in a carcinogen-free environment, James' curiosity was immediately piqued.

In 2011, James joined forces with Jesse Webb, a fellow card dealer who brought his business acumen and affable personality to a modest operation that would become Mt Baker Vapor.

With an unbelievable product rooted in customer service, Mt Baker Vapor quickly grew into an international brand with over 150 employees. As expected, this level of growth did not come without its challenges. In June of 2015, due to an inexorable tax hike at a tune of 90%, Mt Baker Vapor moved from its humble beginnings in Bellingham, Washington to a new state-of-the-art facility in Mesa, Arizona. Since relocating to Arizona, the company has undergone a restructuring of leadership and personnel in order to keep current with the ever-changing vape demographic.

Despite the growing pains of a young and exciting brand, Mt Baker Vapor has and will continue to offer exemplary service, quality products and fast shipping, all at a competitive price.

This is the story of Mt Baker Vapor.